Introduction

The way we communicate with other individuals can have a significant effect on the way that communication is received by the recipient. Our communications are usually 1) face-to-face, 2) by letter, 3) by e-mail, 4) by telephone, and 5) Internet communication. These methods should be handled in a professional manner. E-mail communications should be composed using precision, care and professional etiquette. Accordingly, some communication may not be appropriate for and should not be reflected in an e-mail message. For example, communication involving sensitive, personal information, and/or confidential reports, such as psycho-educational evaluations should take place with an opportunity for face to face, or voice to voice explanation and conversation.

6196.2

Property Rights

The use of the name, logo, or school colors of the Fairfield Area School District or the names of any of its' staff, students or organizations is considered the property of the Fairfield Area School District. To publish this information on internal or external correspondence in any manner, including a website, is in violation of this policy. Prior approval is required for all students, staff, and administrators by the office of the superintendent before the use of the above-mentioned information.

6196.3

Ownership / Privacy / Enforcement

All e-mail transmissions are the property of the Fairfield Area School District, and as such, a user has no right to privacy with respect to any e-mail sent or received. All email is routinely archived. Even if messages are deleted from the user's mailbox, they may still be archived.

6196.3a Random monitoring of the e-mail accounts will enforce this policy.

6196.3b This policy follows federal and state laws regarding e-mail. Anything sent or received via e-mail can be used in a court of law.
